

A healthy democracy demands more diversity of opinion, not less, which means more channels of independent communication. The airwaves belong to the people, not corporations. Combining these two principles I implore the FCC to maintain the restrictions on concentration of ownership, and instead to strengthen these restrictions, if possible.

Sincerely,
Jon Barrilleaux